Kathy Porter named Mrs. Universal

Mommy's home

After two weeks in Miami, where she won the Mrs. Universal Pageant, Kathy Porter was happy to see her five-year old son Dale as he was to see her.

by Elaine DePasquale
Smiling and happy, her blue eyes radiating a mixture of joy and fatigue, Kathy Porter, the new Mrs. Universal of 1978, stepped of a plane at Logan airport Monday evening.

The Wilmington resident was returning from a two-week stay in Miami, Florida, where she successfully competed against women from all parts of the country to win the Mrs. Universal world crown, and a $1,000 cash prize.

Her daughter Tammy, 4, entered an associated competition for the title of Miss La Petite. While she did not win, she placed in the top 20 per cent of her field.

The competitions were among several sponsored annually by the

Businessman delays parking lot work

A plan to improve North Wilmington's municipal parking lot has been temporarily stymied by the objections of at least one businessman in the area.

Steve Winston, of Winston's Coffee Shop, told selectmen Friday that the proposed barrier median, designated parking spaces and semi-circular traffic flow pattern would have an adverse effect on his business.

Selectmen disagree, but have decided to halt work on the project until after their August 21 meeting. Selectman Rocco DePasquale challenged Winston to come up with a better suggestion for improving the lot which has won the reputation recently of a "drag strip" for youths in cars.

The parking lot came to the selectmen's attention at their July 18 meeting. Dadant Drive resident Ann Linehan suggested that incidents of speeding through the lot and performing "wheelies" with cars could be eliminated by installing a barrier median and marking out parking spaces. She charged that speeders were threatening the safety of children patronizing the stores located there.

The town-owned lot, has long been a gathering spot for youth and numerous complaints have surfaced about litter, broken beer bottles and dangerous driving.

The town's proposal, designed by Highway Superintendent Bob Palmer, calls for a line of highway posts placed ed five feet apart to bisect the lot. Traffic would enter on the side of the lot closest to the North Wilmington shopping center and exit on the side adjacent to land owned by the Town Crier.

Parking spaces would be marked out diagonally on either side of the median. A large unpaved portion at the rear of the lot would be left untouched to accommodate trucks. Additional parking for trucks would be available at the extreme left hand side of the lot near the Town Crier.

"All we are going to do is regulate traffic going in and out, to make it a more proper parking area," said DePasquale, denying Winston's charges that the proposed improvements would reduce the number of parking spaces available.

He said that it was a possibility that, unless something was done to rectify hazardous conditions at the lot, someone might propose the land be sold. Indeed, a portion of the area at the extreme left of the lot has already been sold to the Town Crier.

Without the use of the municipal lot, it is quite possible that some of the businesses in the North Wilmington shopping center would not have the required number of parking spaces, under zoning laws, to be granted a license to operate.

In addition to improvements in the parking lot, DePasquale said, he would like to see the installation of curbing and sidewalks along either side of Middlesex Avenue from the railroad tracks to beyond the municipal lot. This would prevent, he said, dangerous crowding conditions, the result of parallel parking in front of Elia's Country Store and the office of the Town Crier.

Post haste

A highway department crew began installing posts in the North Wilmington parking lot on Friday morning, but by the time three holes had been broken in the pavement, a stop was ordered. The two posts in the picture were already there, marking the front of the parking lot. The man with the jackhammer is David LeClair.

Sewer problems

The beat gets stronger

Some few months ago, at the beginning of the construction of the seven million dollar sewer main through Wilmington there were difficulties which erupted in the meeting of the Sewer and Water Commissioners. There was excessive water in the right-of-way. There were problems about the Butters Row Bridge. The Boston & Maine Railroad was not happy.

Wilmington's state representative wanted to take off against the engineering firm. Wilmington's town manager favored a calmer approach - get the work done, and then if necessary do the fighting.

Since then work has continued. Both contracting firms have had discussions regarding costs with the commissioners. Both firms are unhappy, and in particular the Masoncraft firm. There have been many added costs, and the principals have discussed those costs more than once.

The beat got stronger last Thursday evening. The Fred Cain Bridge, five items for Masoncraft, and a closed session, in which possibly damages to a Wilmington manufacturing concern were discussed were all a part of the discussion.

The Fred Cain Bridge

The Pacella Company, which is installing the sewer from Burlington Avenue to a point behind Rocco's Restaurant had a hot one, Thursday. They were trying to tunnel beneath the Fred Cain Bridge - the new railroad bridge near Rocco's - and they were afraid it would collapse.

Present for the discussion were two engineers, from the firm who drew the plans, two consulting engineers, two men from Pacella, two water commissioners and the Town Manager.

Ray Greenhalgh and Mike Pacella represented the contractors. They told the Water Commissioners that they were being forced to take out three times as much material as they had planned, and they were afraid the bridge would collapse. The preliminary borings, they said, were not indicative of such problems.

Diane Marie Shukis is bride

Diane Marie Shukis, daughter of Joanne and Frank Shukis of Cedar Street, Wilmington became the bride of William R. Hoover, son of Claire and William Hoover of Chester Road, Burlington on June 3.

The altar of St. Thomas Church was adorned with blue, white and apricot chrysanthemums for the two o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Francis Mackin.

There musical renditions, "Color my World," "Ave Marie," and "We've Only Just Begun" enhanced the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a full length Quiana princess style gown featuring a long flowing train, and high neckline trimmed with seed pearls. Her three tiered illusion veil fell from a tiara of lace and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white roses.

Deborah Shukis attended her sister as maid of honor in a blue chiffon princess style gown with off-the-shoulder neckline. She carried a traditional bouquet and wore baby's breath in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Jayne Jackson, Kathy Towle, Kathy Reinhardt, Sandy Terrazzano, Linda Harnum and Debby Kelly.

They all wore apricot gowns and carried bouquets of blue with scattered touches of apricot matching their gowns. Kirby Harnum served his friend as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Frank Shukis, Brian Shukis, Bob Hoover, Bruce Hoover, Vin Ferrara and John Sarno.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Sons of Italy Hall on Ballardvale Street where Shirley DeFelice circulated the guest book. The hall was trimmed in blue and white and Rita and the Stardusters provided music for dancing.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shukis chose a pink chiffon gown and a corsage of white orchids.

The mother of the groom was attired in a peppermint green chiffon gown. She also wore a corsage of white orchids.

For traveling the new Mrs. Hoover wore a mint green jersey dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The bride and groom spent their honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Wilmington High School and a 76 graduate of Barabson. She is currently employed by Marshall's of Woburn.

Her husband is a 1974 graduate of Burlington High School and attended Norwich University. He is now employed by Recco Co., refrigeration and air conditioning.

Ralph Wallace, owner of Wallace Motors AMC Dealership in Wilmington announced the results of a recent national survey conducted by Popular Mechanics Magazine rating Concord tops in owner satisfaction.

"Concord has an amazingly high percentage of 'no complaints' about their new car." "That sets Concord above all 14 cars surveyed," wrote Michael Laum, West Coast Editor of Popular Mechanics.

Some of the other cars surveyed included Ford Thunderbird, Pontiac Grand Prix and Chrysler's Le Baron.

Some comments by Concord owners who participated in the survey are as follows:

"It's the best car I've ever owned." A New York dry cleaner

"It's the roominess in a compact car, the cloth seats, ride and silence - a really sharp little car." A Maine serviceman

Popular Mechanics asked owners what improvements they might suggest and the answer was "No changes - leave it the way it is!"

"This is a top - quality car - and no other automobile - foreign or domestic - can beat it."

A new home on the Otis Carter site

It has taken nearly 100 years, but there is a new home to be seen, overlooking the Otis Carter crossing of the Wildcat Railroad, Glen Road, Wilmington.

Built by Ralph Newhouse, the house is one of two new homes and represents, as it stands, a triumph of sorts for the builder. Today a builder must clear base with all sorts of officials, before he can pick up a hammer. It has become quite a game.

The site of that building, 100 years ago, was the home of Otis Carter, and the crossing, as alluded to above, was the Otis Carter Crossing.

Otis was the son of Abiel and Phoebe (Morrill) Carter. His dad was the man who tracked the Pearson murderer, back in 1849, from Andover Street and down to the Wilmington railroad depot. It was quite a tale. His mother was a granddaughter of Wilmington's Rev. Isaac Morrill, he who is entombed near the town hall, beneath a brick tombstone.

In addition to being the Constable of Wilmington Abiel was a farmer, who in his youth grew hops. The old Carter house was one of Wilmington's Hop Houses. Some may think that phrase is a joke. It isn't.

Hops were grown on many farms in Wilmington, and after being cut they were dried. There were two ways to dry hops.

The preferred way, in many households was to dry the hops in the attic. That meant hauling the green herb up several stories, and then hanging it on racks to dry.

After the hops were dried they were stuffed into huge bags, and returned to ground level through a "hop hole." There were a few homes in Wilmington which had a "hop hole." Today there is only one left - the Benjamin Buck House.

The hops were sent by canal boat or by wagon, the latter usually, to Charlestown, from when they were shipped by boat to some place where beer was made, such as, for instance, Philadelphia. Wilmington hops were justly famous, once upon a time.

The Otis Carter house went back to at least 1741, when Glen Road was built across the swamp and up the hill - a road to Sandy Pond (now Silver Lake).

It was at first the home of the Scales family - Nathan and Hannah. There were quite a few in that family, including a James, and a Nathan Jr. The cellar hole from that home existed until recently, when it was filled in prior to the erection of the new home. Across Glen Road (at that time almost a footpath) was the barn, on the brow of the hill. The cellar of that barn had disappeared in the last half century, as Glen Road was widened, and then widened again.

Anyway, after a century or so, there is again a home on that site, overlooking the Otis Carter crossing of the Wildcat Railroad.

The Mysteries of Dionysus

There is a new book, a handsome book, in the public library in Wilmington. It sits near the exit, on a shelf. It is entitled "Pompeii and Herculaneum" and for those who might like to buy a copy the price is $40.00.

The book is there, of course, as a result of the recent exhibit in Boston, in the Museum of Fine Arts, of some of the artifacts of Pompeii. Thousands of people have visited the Museum of Fine Arts, to see that exhibit.

The writer's interest in Pompeii goes back long before that exhibit. He was in command of a ship, in the Mediterranean during World War II, and twice he made arrangements for the crew of his ship to visit Pompeii, while the ship was at Naples. Most of the crew members took part, having to take turns. The writer made two trips, and thus was a "two trip man" to Pompeii.

Pompeii is some 15 or 18 miles from Naples, under the shadow of Mount Vesuvius, which, in 1944, while the Americans were in Naples, was in almost constant eruption. It (Vesuvius) was a glorious sight.

There was, at that time, in Naples, a Professor M. Della Corte, who published a small booklet on Pompeii, a guide book. It was the best book available to the members of the American armed forces, and the price was 60 Lire - in other words 60 cents. The writer still has his copy.

Everything considered, Professor Della Corte produced a master piece. Naples was a wreck. What the Germans had not blown up, as they left, the Americans had bombed, before they entered it. Not a house was left standing within a quarter of a mile of the waterfront.

Life for the Italian people of Naples was not easy. There was no food. There was no work. The coming of the American Army eased the burden for many.

Under the circumstances, for Professor Della Corte to write a book, small as it was, in the English language, and to get it printed was something of a miracle. The writer never met the gentleman, but he has always been grateful to him.

The language of the booklet, as it could be expected, is not pure English. Prof. Della Corte knew of what he was writing, but he did not have full command of the English language, nor, it seems did he have anyone who was capable of proof-reading his remarks. Nevertheless, it was a marvelous job.

One place of which he wrote the writer did not see. It was called the "Villa of Mysteries" and was not within the city walls of Pompeii.

No one it seems ever got to the Villa of Mysteries. Unless he happened to own a copy of the booklet prepared by Prof. Della Corte, the average American knew nothing about that Villa.

To get into that Villa, during World War II, meant crawling in through a window. The excavations were not complete, and perhaps prudently the Italians were keeping visitors away.

Professor Della Corte did write a description of the paintings on the walls. It was Professor Della Corte, too, who said the Villa was a place of Dionysian Mysteries.

The name Dionysus goes back to the Fourth Century, B.C. He was a Greek God. There was a society for women, which used his name. Depending on the source, it was occult, or bizarre, or what have you.

The women of ancient Greece were unable to write. What is known as the Mysteries of Dionysus is known from the writings of mere man. Perhaps he knew of what he was writing. Perhaps he was only guessing. No one knows. The Greek men had some wonderful tales to tell, at times. Maybe sometimes they knew of what they were speaking.

Anyway, in that Villa, outside of Pompeii there were nine paintings, and there were many statues, all pertaining to what Prof. Della Corte called the "Ladies initiation in mysteries of Dionysus."

The descriptions of the professor are very nice. Some persons might say they were pornographic. Others most assuredly would not.

The point of all this is that the book, in the Wilmington Library, entitled Pompeii and Herculaneum, shows some colored photographs of the paintings in the Villa of Mysteries. One does not have to go to Italy, and crawl into a partly excavated building to see what the Greek men imagined the Greek women were up to, in those days.

Freeman Amos Potamia

There is an interesting tombstone in Reading, which was the subject of an article by the Reading Chronicle recently. It is the tombstone of a black man, Amos Potamia by name, who was born, the story goes, in Wilmington. The story seems to raise a mystery for those people who are interested in Wilmington in the Colonial days.

The Reading Chronicle story was relative to their historic Parker Tavern. It encompassed a letter written by a Harnden, on May 27, 1858, regarding the death of Amos Potamia.

The Chronicle goes on to report that the executor of Potamia's estate was Caleb Wakefield, a venerable builder of that town, and that the probate records indicate the cost of the grave lot was $6, and the monument was made by William Johnson at a cost of $30.50.

According to the Chronicle story Potamia came to Reading from Stoneham, and he was a cordwainer and leather worker. It also reports he followed the trade of shoe maker. Amos was a frugal man, who saved up enough money to make some investments, including the purchase of stock in the Medford-Andover Turnpike. Today one calls that highway Route 28.

The Town Crier must confess: It knows nothing of Amos Potamia other than what has been printed in the Chronicle. The gravestone says he was born in Wilmington. There is no record of his birth, in Wilmington.

There were several black people in Wilmington prior to the Revolution, all of whom were termed servants.

The only place where more than one black person lived, at that time, was at the Jones Farm, on Andover Street. The site today is the Knollwood Farm, but it was a different building.

Mr. Jones was a carpenter. He was the man who built the Harnden Tavern. Several of his black servants assisted in the building of that tavern. The names are unknown to the Town Crier.

As a guess, if Amos Potamia was born in Wilmington, it was on the Jones Farm, today Knollwood Farm, but that is only a guess.

Studying geology on Cape Cod

Joyce Brisbois of Boutwell Street, Wilmington and Preston Holman of 118 Lake Street are having fun this summer, studying the geology of Cape Cod. They are part of a class being conducted by Dr. Frank Fessenden, chairman of the Science Department of Bentley College.

They are using the Wellfleet area as a base, and have journeyed from the Cape Cod Canal to the Provincetown Hook. Cape Cod was formed at the end of the last ice age, when glaciers dumped tons of sand. The sand was later moved and shaped by the forces of the wind and waves. Cape Cod, Dr. Fessenden told his students "is a temporary geological feature. It seems to be retreating, at the rate of two and a half to three feet a year." The class, among other things, measured the rate of beach erosion, and observed the extensive damage caused to the shoreline by the blizzard in February.

Doucette named WHS basketball coach

by Rick Cooke

Donald Doucette, former Boston State College basketball captain on a team that won three straight Massachusetts State College championships, has been named as the next Wilmington High School basketball coach, succeeding Bob Milley who resigned following last winter's 9-9 MVC campaign.

The Boston State graduate was voted the best defensive player on State's NCAA tournament team of 1975. Prior to his playing at Boston State, Doucette graduated from Melrose High School where he was a Middlesex League All-Star voted to the All State Team in 1970.

Bob comes to the Wilmington coaching ranks after serving as an assistant basketball coach at Curry College for the past two years. Doucette was also an assistant to former Boston State coach Jim Loscutt.

The new WHS coach teaches physical education in the North Reading school system and resides in Melrose.

The South squad, led by Tewksbury High School's football coaching staff and several Tewksbury-Wilmington stars, have begun for the 29th annual All-Star football game to be played at Cawley Memorial Stadium Tuesday night, August 22 at eight o'clock. The game marks the start of the 1978 gridiron season with the North Stars battling the South Stars under the lights.

South head coach Aylward will be assisted by Redmen coaches Connie Barry, Barry Sheehan, Jim Kastritis, Gerry Rideout and Joe DelGrosso. Barry, Sheehan, Rideout and DelGrosso are all former Tewksbury High School football standouts.

The South squad was tentatively scheduled to begin practice Monday night (August 7) at the Tewksbury High School practice field behind the Center School while the North squad, headed by Chet Steele began practice Tuesday night (August 8) at Cawley Stadium.

Steele's assistants are George Bossi of Lowell High, Dennis Murphy of Greater Lowell Vocational and Bruce Cobleigh of Ayer High School.

Players from Tewksbury, Chelmsford, Wilmington, Billerica, Burlington, Bedford, Acton, Shawsheen Tech, Concord and Maynard will comprise the South squad. The North team will be made up of players from Lowell, Bishop Guertin, Nashua, North Middlesex, Tyngsboro, Dracut, Littleton, Westford, Nashoba Tech, Ayer and Greater Lowell Vocational.

The South nipped the North 10-8 last summer in a defensive battle that was keyed by Al Santo's 28 yard field goal and a block of a field goal by fellow Redman Gene Roux who was playing defensive tackle for the first time in his career.

The South, coached for the last time by Wilmington High head man Fred Bellissimo, scored all their points in the second quarter as Wilmington fullback Gordie Fitch capped an eight-play 44 yard drive with a two yard plunge behind the block of Tewksbury left tackle Joe Gorfinkle. Santos came on to kick the conversion and the South led 7-0 with 2:10 left to play in the first half.

The previous year the South rolled to a 22-6 win with seven Tewksbury-Wilmington players in the starting offensive lineup. The local stars totally dominated the North despite the revamped setup (the roster of teams was shifted slightly after the South squad ripped Lowell 32-0 in the 1973 game) as the winning offense rolled up a 256-9 advantage on the ground enroute to a 274-52 domination in total offense.

Wildcat fullback Jackie Moran was the game's Most Valuable Player and he scored the first touchdown after the South had gotten off to an inauspicious start by losing all four of the pre-game contests that feature passing, punting, sprinting and kickoff for distance.

In the 1975 game a South rally fell just short as Most Valuable Player Tony Sciolla - the quarterback from Ayer - led the North to a 12-7 win. The game featured 10 local stars from Tewksbury and Wilmington. Tewksbury halfback Scott Darby and Wilmington fullback Bob Bavota were the offensive mainstays for the South squad.

The South should be a slight favorite this year despite not having Tewksbury halfback Jay Petros leading the way. Jay will miss the game due to a college commitment.

The game always features the best that area high school football has to offer and the addition of the Tewksbury coaching staff and their wide open offense should give the North squad a bit more to think about.

Redmen-Wildcats set for camp

The Tewksbury and Wilmington High School football teams are set for their respective camps slated for the last week in August. The Redmen under coach Bob Aylward will head for their camp in Brownsville, Vermont with the team's first contact session slated for August 29.

Tewksbury is in the hunt for replacements at the "skill" positions, having lost quarterback Brian Wolfe, Petros and talented receivers Pat Puzzo and Phil Keon to graduation. Aylward reports that he has the biggest team he's ever had in six years of coaching at TMHS.

It's still much too early to make a prognosis on the team's fate although it's a safe bet they will be competitive and in the thick of the MVC race barring a rash of serious injuries to front line people. A quarterback, a back with the ability to turn the corner and some quality linebackers are important ingredients for a Tewksbury contender however.

Wilmington and first year head coach John Ritchie are set for their camp at Freedom, New Hampshire with their standout people being at the skill positions - quarterback, halfback and receiver - rather than up front where Ritchie will have a contingent of small, raw, and young recruits.

Quarterback John Robarge, halfback Chris Briggs and receiver Dave Woods head a developing Wildcat cast that may still be a year away after last season's 4-5-1 campaign - the last under the coaching veteran Bellissimo.

Ritchie says one important man on this team will be line coach Jim Gillis, who will have his work cut out for him to develop a group that can carry on the Wildcat tradition of being tough in the trenches.

Ritchie sees Chelmsford and Dracut - the defending MVC co-champs - as the teams to beat this fall. John eyes Lawrence Central Catholic as the conference darkhorse. Wilmington, says John, may be able to make things interesting for the fans this season with heavy emphasis on hard work, fundamentals and a more wide open offense than in past years. Whatever happens, the veteran Wildcat assistant coach has earned his shot and he is aiming to make the most of it.

Ritchie sees two divisions
Ritchie doesn't see Wilmington being able to compete athletically with the bigger MVC schools such as Chelmsford and Billerica in the near future. Ritchie sees the conference being divided into two divisions if Lowell, Haverhill and Lowell Voke ever win league acceptance. The Wildcats would be included in the division with the smaller schools - Dracut, Austin Prep, Central Catholic and possibly Tewksbury.

Tewksbury summer basketball

Tewksbury's summer high school basketball league has completed its season with the Tewksbury team coming in at 6-6 while Wilmington finished at 2-10 in the warm weather circuit.

final standings

Lowell	11-1
Chelmsford	9-3
Masconomet	7-5
Tewksbury	6-6
Lowell Voke	4-8
North Reading	3-9
Wilmington	2-10

Wilmington SPORTS

Pop Warner opens season

Wilmington Pop Warner football launched its 1978 season Tuesday, August 1. Due to a heavy registration, the registration period will be extended.

All boys who are trying out for the A and B traveling teams and the In-town League must report at 6 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Boys who are already registered should report directly to coaches at the WHS field. Boys who are intending to sign up at the field must be accompanied by a parent or guardian and should bring a copy of their birth certificate. Boys are asked to follow this format to avoid confusion and expedite the starting of the practice session.

Late comers who intend to play football this season are urged to take advantage at this final sign-up as the turnout has been very heavy at pre-season registration. In case of overflow registration, boys will be accepted on a first come-first served basis.

To be eligible for Pop Warner a boy must be born between August 1, 1964 and December 31, 1969. The maximum A team weight will again be 125 pounds. The B team weight limit will be 115 pounds maximum this season. In addition to these standard age and weight limits, Pop Warner National will allow 14-year-olds (105 pounds or less) born between January 1, 1964 and July 31, 1964 to play on traveling A teams. Thirteen-year-olds (95 pounds or less) born between January 1, 1965 and July 31, 1965 may play on traveling B teams. Suggested wearing apparel for the practice is tee-shirt, shorts and sneakers.

Bob Sweeney cops tournaments

Wilmington's Bob Sweeney completed a tennis tourney twin killing this past weekend with a win in the Manchester Junior Championships, defeating number three ranked Ron Ahell 7-5, 6-3. A win in the Weatherfield Connecticut Junior Championships July 21-23 sent Bob off on his title run as he knocked off Cranston, Rhode Island's Darrel Grise 6-3, 6-3. Both tourneys are class A ranked in the New England Lawn Tennis Association with Bob competing in the 12 and under group.

This weekend Sweeney travels to Yale University for the New England Junior Championships.

Brenda Sweeney kept the tradition of top notch tennis in the family recently when she played in her first 10 and under tournament at the Natick

Raquet Club and reached the final round before losing.

Junior Suburban Tennis League

The Junior Suburban Tennis League continues play with several tough matches with the top league contenders. The matches include three boys and three girls playing singles matches consisting of a 10-game pro set, and four (two boys teams and two girls teams) doubles teams playing a 12-game pro set.

On Tuesday, August 8, the boys travelled to Wakefield, pulling out only one point out of five while the girls hosted Wakefield at the WHS tennis courts and suffered their first loss of the season 1-4.

Bob Williams played first singles in an exciting match which went to a nine point tiebreaker that he lost to Eddie Curley 10-11. Second and third singles were played by Bob Magliozzi and Bob Perry who both lost in tough matches 2-10 and 9-11 respectively. The first doubles team of Frank Newark and Ted Moran lost to the Applin brothers in a 3-12 match. An exciting match was played by the second doubles team of Richard Bova, and Jim Newhouse who came from behind to go into a nine point tiebreaker at 12-12. The tiebreaker was a squeaker as both teams were tied at 4-4. Wakefield served for the match only to have Newhouse set up Bova for the game winner for the team's lone point.

Kerrin Taylor, at first singles, took her first loss of the season, bowing to a strong Cindy DeGaravilla of Wakefield 1-10. Diane Doyle gave Kathy Mason her toughest match of the season only to lose 5-10. Catherine Ryan at third singles lost 3-10 and the first doubles team of Lisa Bova and Tricia Ryan went down 4-12. Wilmington's only point of the match came with a 12-7 win by the second doubles team of Paula Burns and Susan Gillespie.

Thursday, August 10, the Wilmington boys played host to Stoneham at the WHS courts while the girls travelled to Stoneham. The boys were topped two points out of five with wins by third singles Bob Magliozzi (10-4) and the second doubles team of Bova and Newhouse (12-0). Bob Williams at first singles suffered a 5-10 loss and Bob Perry went down 7-10 in a well played match. Frank Newark and Jonathan Nolan lost at first doubles in a nip-and-tuck match that went to Stoneham 12-10.

The girls had an easy 4-1 win over the Stoneham girls with Kerrin Taylor losing an exciting, well-played 7-10 match to Susan Cooper. Diane Doyle and Catherine Ryan won 10-1 and 10-3 at second and third singles, while Tricia Ryan and Lisa Bova took a 12-2 win at first doubles and Paula Burns and Anne Ryan won at second doubles by the same score.

Blood donors

Three firms on Industrial Way in Wilmington held a blood drive on Tuesday, collecting 68 pints of blood. Keene Manufacturing joined with Altron, Inc. and Analog & Digital Systems (ADS) to hold the drive, which was serviced by a Red Cross mobile collection unit. Above, nurse Trudi Farnham attends to donor William Peltier of Everett, while William Corlito and William Dembro, both of Chelsea, fill out their forms.

Teen Center summer

The Teens of Wilmington are enjoying a Teen Center Backgammon Summer at the Walker School. The overwhelming interest in this game has taken over the Teen Center and the board goes continually from opening to closing time.

Friday, August 11, the Center traveled to Paragon Park with 50 teens for an eventful day of swimming at the ocean in the morning and going on an unlimited number of rides at the park from 1:00 to 5:30 p.m. Earl Paulson, Billy Trites, Steve Lefave, and Denise and Kathy Lynch cashed in over a total of 300 skee ball tickets for numerous and varied prizes offered by the arcade. Rico Catalano and Louis Szabo were busy collecting crabs from the beach which they thoughtfully brought to the attention of Linda McVicker and Nancy Phillips, who enjoyed their company. This has definitely been a Teen Center Summer and all who participated in the calendar of events had a great time.

Holiday week at Camp Forty Acres

It's Holiday Week at the Wilmington Recreation Department's Special Needs Program at Camp Forty Acres.

The final week at the day camp for handicapped youngsters has been marked by a series of celebrations.

On Monday, Valentine's Day was celebrated with the making of paper Valentines and a cook-out sponsored by the Sons of Italy. Volunteers from that organization manned picnic tables dispensing cold drinks and hot food.

"It's been quite an experience," said Grace Kirkland, one of the volunteers. "I think we got more out of it than the kids did."

Later in the evening, the 41 youngsters who participate in the program were invited, with their parents, to a spaghetti supper sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. The event was the annual Awards Night Banquet.

The highlight of the week is, of course, Christmas. That special day in the hearts of all youngsters will be celebrated Thursday with a cook-out and sleep-over sponsored by the employees of the Department of Buildings and Grounds. According to the employees' committee in charge of arrangements, Big Bird plans to put in an appearance and Sant Claus as well with presents for everyone.

The evening will mark the close of this summer Special Needs program for 1978.

The program, which is in its eighth year, was described by Director Bob Scanlon as "one big family."

It is well supervised and well staffed with two directors (the other is Bill Simmons, a teacher at the Woburn Street School), and two co-ordinators, Dale McCulley and Debbie Chamberlain. Both are graduates of special education programs.

The program also has 10 more staffers, 16 Neighborhood Youth Corps helpers and approximately 20 volunteers.

"We are running one on one," said Scanlon of the staff-participant ratio.

Tots tugging

Mike Pilcher, Linda Claire and a few other children give their best effort in a tug-of-war during the Tiny Tots' cookout on Monday at Silver Lake Beach. Later, the adult tug-of-war broke the rope.

Congress won't be the first place John Markey fights to save taxpayers money.

He stood tough against white collar crime in Middlesex County Court.

John Markey's work as a Middlesex County Prosecutor didn't end with fighting public corruption. He took the same tough stand with private ripoff men.

Like the doctor who illegally peddled drugs. And a lawyer who conspired to rob banks. John Markey successfully prosecuted both of them.

You see, John Markey believes that people's trust should always be honored. In private as well as public life.

He fought corruption in Lowell Superior Court.

As a Middlesex County Prosecutor, John Markey took on a politician who paid a relative for a no-show job.

Before the case was closed, the politician had pleaded guilty to perjury. And thanks to John Markey, had paid back more than $7,000 in taxpayers' hard-earned money.

He'll stand tough against backroom deals in Congress.

Inaction and corruption in Washington are costing taxpayers a fortune. Inflation keeps climbing, while Congress drags its feet on energy and tax reform. And taxes soar, while special interests cut their deals with Congressmen.

John Markey will fight to end the backroom deals and foot-dragging that are costing taxpayers a fortune in Congress.

That's why the Fifth District could use John Markey in Congress.

He protected tax- payers in U.S. District Court.

As an Assistant U.S. Attorney, John Markey worked hard to stop the drain on taxpayers' dollars.

When private citizens were discovered forging U.S. Treasury checks, John Markey brought the case to court. And he didn't stop working until the case was won.

Because John Markey believes good tough action by federal officials can stop the drain on taxpayers at the local level. That's why he's running for Congress.

John Markey for Congress. Democrat.

He took on the lawbreakers. He'll take on the lawmakers.

Glen Road accident

A Wilmington man escaped injury when his car flipped over on Glen Road Saturday afternoon.

The driver, Kenneth J. Knight of Pinewood Road, lost control of his vehicle, a Chevy Nova, when it struck the curbing after rounding the corner at the intersection of Glen Road and Middlesex Avenue.

It landed upside down on the lawn of a home which was once the site of the Town Pound. The stone wall at the extreme left of the photo encloses an area once used for keeping stray cattle.

Officer Robert Shelley and Officer Joseph Morgan responded to the call.

Police plan to press charges on the incident.

Tewksbury Jail Day summary

The final wrap-up of Jail Day goes as follows: 1978 was sponsored by Multiple Sclerosis and was done for M.S. The committee was formed by Jean Russell in November of 1977 and followed through to 1978 with the selectmen proclaiming M.S. Week as May 14 through 21. The first meeting was encouraging and informative and was attended by Don Greer, Jay Gaffney, Marilyn Erickson, Marilyn Doran, Denise DeVlamnick and Mark Sheehan from M.S., at the home of Jean Russell.

Jail Day was originally offered as an idea from Larry Driscoll and was supported with ideas and encouragement from Don Green and Al Hancock. At that meeting we discussed honorary chairmen. We decided on an athlete because of M.S.'s slogan "Athletes vs M.S." and picked Mickey Sullivan and Bob Aylward. We discussed asking the manager of the new Andover Savings Bank to welcome him to our town. Bruce Westaway kindly accepted and we graduated to his conference room for our meetings.

An open invitation to our Jail Day committee led to the support of Peter Amari, president of Tewksbury Police Association and Barbara Mackey, vice-president of the Tewksbury Police Wives Association. Barbara became secretary of the committee and Peter took charge of the assembly and disassembly of the Jail Day activities. Along with help from Vice President Lennie Bolton and Secretary John Mackey who, in turn had the unanimous help of the police department and police reserves. The Tewksbury Police Department provided the most productive and valuable support a committee could wish to have.

Under the direction of Peter Amari, the policemen attempted to make light of a job that they don't like to do. They thought it fun and good public relations. Many a mother thought it therapeutic. The crowd cheered when Chief Sullivan was arrested and fined $25. Mayor Sughrue put it to the crowd as to whether he should stay in jail or not. Consequently he was left there for a while.

After M.S. Week was proclaimed, the committee grew with added enthusiasm collecting members as follows: Donna Acquaviva, Peter Amari, Bob Aylward, Jimmy Brooks, Linda Bolton, Lennie Bolton, Charlie Coldwell, Marilyn Doran, Larry Driscoll, Joan Dunlevy, Carol Erickson, Marilyn Fowler, Paul Fowler, Jay Gaffney, Don Greer, Bill Hallisey, Richard Hamm, Al Hancock, Mary MacDonald, Barbara Mackey, John Mackey, Mike Marks, Ken Monihan, Dick Morris, Jean Russell, Tussy Russell, Lillian Sacramone, John Sughrue, Mickey Sullivan, Dick Truebe, and Bruce Westaway.

Putting Jail Day together, we knew we needed a judge. We unanimously voted that position to Jay Gaffney, one of the first on the committee. Then we decided we would have to have a chief of police for our new-found Keystone City and drafted Tussy Russell. From there he apprehended the most ideal "krook" Jimmy Brooks. They immediately went to the Tewksbury Police Station for the publicity pictures where "Krook Brooks" was being booked for pick-pocketing on the person of Officer Bob Cook. As it turned out Krook Brooks made restitution and became one of Tussy Russell's Keystone City Kops. Bill Hallisey then became "Krook."

We then appointed Selectman John Sughrue Mayor of Keystone City. He would also act as toastmaster for the event. Peter picked Joe Cormier as prosecuting attorney to assist "Judge Gaffney." Needless to say the "krooked threesome" with some of the funniest dealings going on, brought in about $2,000 in funny fines. Collecting the fines was Al Hancock who was going mad in money.

To start off M.S. Week there was a house-to-house campaign headed by Carol Erickson, Marilyn Doran and Marilyn Fowler. Largely supported by the Rainbow Girls and the Molay boys who willingly volunteered their services under the direction of Ann Colpitts.

Next came a basketball game directed by Honorary Chairman Bob Aylward and Mickey Sullivan. Played by the junior high school teachers against the elementary school teachers. The players included Dolly Sacramone, Kevin McArdle, George Kalaritis, Dave Marcus, Brian Irwin, Matt Taylor, Donna Tanner, Donna Acquaviva, Jean Dusilwicz, Martha Dusilwicz, Mickey Sullivan, Dave Mullen, Bob Aylward.

During the game a who slightly resembled Jean Russell made its way out onto the court. Needless to say the bear didn't know very much about basketball, but the youngsters loved having it show up anyway.

Tussy Russell and his Keystone Kops, Johnny DeCarolis, Barry Sheehan, Bob Aylward, Jimmy Brooks, Joe DeGrosso, Mike Sabawa, Billy Latta and Fred Daley and the Redmen Club were run ragged. They are sorry that not all could be picked up, but will certainly make sure there will be enough paddy wagons around next year. To all those who didn't get picked up this year, there will be a lighter sentence next year, and they are instructed not to leave town.

Mayor Sughrue was a sight for sore eyes; he must have gotten up on the wrong side of the bed as he looked as though he were the original absent minded professor in a suit jacket, sweatshirt, long tie, one sneaker and one shoe. When asked by one of the youngsters where he got the shoes he seriously replied that he had another pair just like it at home. John was certainly a good sport and was among the highlights of the day.

On hand for the little ones was the Cookie Monster played by Julie Hall; Oscar the Grouch played by Lorian Boucher and Big Bear played by Linda Carey. Hats off to these three as it was so hot in those outfits. They certainly made the little ones smile.

The DeMolay clowns were there also delighting the young people with their balloons. They were terrific as usual, under the direction of Rick Hamm.

During the event Selectmen Dick Morris and Charlie Coldwell were hit with a cream pie. Dick was hit by his delightful granddaughter and Charlie by one of his pretty teenaged daughters. We are not sure who got the biggest thrill, the pitchers or the targets, but one thing is for sure - it will be done again next year; the audience loved it. Bill Hallisey was missed, although he was hard not to spot, running around in a striped jailbird suit.

A birthday cake was presented to Eleanor McDermott, a Tewksbury MS'er. Eleanor was taken to the festival from a Lowell Nursing Home by the paratour after the insistence of Selectman John Sughrue who was determined to have her there "by hook or by crook." She was applauded by fellow MS'ers Lillian Sacramone, Regina Sargent and Regina Wojcik.

Bruce Westaway conducted an auction toward the close of the day, auctioning off toys, games and donated gifts and just about anything that had not been nailed down.

The food and crafts tables were manned by Donna Acquaviva and the policemen's wives ran the tables under the direction of Barbara Mackey. Barbara made many of the crafts items herself and the committee hopes she will set up shop again next year. The flea market was set up by the Tewksbury Police Department. Many thanks to those who took a table to aid in the fight against Multiple Sclerosis.

There was a magic show by Jerry and Ann Fields inside the mall. Their act included the zig-zag girl where Jerry divided Ann into three parts. He also took Johnny Russell from the audience and levitated him in thin air, sliding a hoop over his body. Walt Donahue was also there with the Fields to perform hypnotism and ESP to an amazed audience. The children were delighted.

Jean Cayer-Bancroft was on hand to do handwriting analysis and Irene Vanini read palms. There was also a band near the jail. The band came from Chelmsford and certainly added to the entertainment of the day.

There was also an auto exhibit of late model cars nicely put together by Ken Sargent.

Because of New Legislators like Representative Jim Miceli

it has NOT been Business as usual at the State House this year

*** Boston Herald, April 13, 1978 - "Seventy-seven House Legislators yesterday committed themselves to a platform of rules changes challenging the Speaker's one-man committee appointing powers, intended to go into effect next January." Freshman Rep. James R. Miceli, Democrat of Wilmington, was one of those included among the group calling themselves the Coalition for Legislative Reform.

*** The 1978 edition of Massachusetts' Good Government Watchdog "Common Cause" showed Rep. Jim Miceli voting correctly on every issue - another 100% rating, showing responsiveness to the voter.

*** Rep. Jim Miceli's reputation as an honest, bright and hard-working legislator has given him an open door to every commissioner and cabinet member of the Administration. This has proven to be an effective tool in helping his District.

*** Rep. Miceli was one of the few freshmen Representatives selected to join a small group of legislators who meet with the Governor weekly to participate in discussion of major legislation and state-wide problems.

Maria Sbano and Charles Roux are wed

Maria Lynn Sbano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony P. Sbano of Wilmington became the bride of Charles J. Roux, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roux of Tewksbury on July 15.

The early evening ceremony was performed by Father Francis Mackin before the altar of St. Thomas Church, which was adorned with carnations matching the colors of the gowns worn by the bride's attendants.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of silk organza featuring a Queen Anne collar, trimmed with lace, long, flowing sleeves and a bustle. Her full length, lace trimmed veil fell from a band of matching lace and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis and babies breath.

Cheryl Sbano of Wilmington, sister-in-law of the bride served as matron of honor. The six bridesmaids included Sheila Sbano of Holliston, sister-in-law of the bride; Linda Spataro, cousin of the bride; and Karen Novello of Wilmington, Diane Duffy and Beth Page, all friends of the bride.

Flower girls were Diana Matus and Dawn Silva, both from New York and both cousins of the bride.

The bride's attendants wore full-length gowns of sheer silk styled similar to that of the bride in turquoise, mint green, yellow, shrimp pink, and blue. They carried parrasols matching their gowns.

The flower girls wore light blue printed gowns and carried matching parrasols. Richard M. Qua of Tewksbury served his best friend as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Joseph and Eugene Roux of Tewksbury; Vincent Sbano of Holliston; Peter Sbano of Wilmington; and James Lightfoot of Tewksbury.

Junior usher was Eric Roux, brother of the groom. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Montvale Plaza where Mary Murphy circulated the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Sbano chose a lavender gown with a matching orchid corsage. The mother of the groom was attired in a yellow gown. She also wore an orchid corsage.

For traveling the new Mrs. Roux wore a white skirt and vest with a turquoise blouse and multi-colored tie. Her corsage was of pink roses and babies breath.

The bride was educated in Wilmington and attended Essex Agricultural School.

Her husband was educated in Tewksbury and at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. He is currently employed as a planner at Digital Corp.

Universal Pageant System, one of the world's largest beauty pageant organizations.

Kathy and Tammy were flown expense-paid to Miami by Universal Pageants as a result of winning their respective state-wide competitions.

"I was surprised, shocked!" said Kathy of the moment when she learned she was the winner. Until the last moment, she said, she believed the crown would go to another contestant, the runner-up, who was a former Miss America.

In addition to winning the Mrs. Universal crown, Kathy was also named Miss Photogenic.

Contestants were judged on modeling ability, fashion commentating, beauty and poise as well as answers to a series of questions and a personal interview.

In a surprise, on-stage interview, the contestants were asked to tell something about the town they lived in and what they would do if they were to become governor of their state.

"Of course I answered that I love my town," said Kathy. "In this town I feel we get something for our tax dollar."

She especially appreciated, she said, the opportunity to participate in town government at the Town Meeting, the well-rounded recreation program Wilmington has; and the fact that she has always found public officials readily available to help.

"I also had the opportunity to do some public relations work for Massachusetts," Kathy said, "and boy, do we need it down there."

As the only "northerner" in the competition except for a woman from New Jersey, Kathy was ribbed mercilessly about being a "Yankee" and coming from "Taxachusetts."

Kathy said she described the beauty of Massachusetts with its mountains and oceans and explained that the state has much to offer vacationers or history buffs; but if she were elected governor, she admitted, her first priority would be lowering taxes.

Tammy, too, had to answer a similar question about her town. "We have lots of woods and trees," she said.

The Porters live on Blanchard Road, one of the few truly rural streets left in Wilmington, and woods, trees and the adjacent cranberry bog there are just the things to capture the imagination of a four-year-old.

According to her mother, Tammy had a ball and was so fascinated with the other youngsters and their southern draws that she barely noticed the judges.

Along with veritable mountains of luggage, the Porters carried home three trophies. One, the Mrs. Universal trophy, was over four feet high.

Tammy also brought home 71 souvenirs from 71 different parts of the world. A requirement of the Miss LaPetite contest was that each contestant bring a souvenir of her home for every other contestant. Together Tammy and her dad, Dale Porter, created 75 miniature Pilgrim hats as her gifts to other contestants.

Back at home after a hectic week, ("It was so busy, three ballrooms were going at once.") Kathy admitted that re-entry to the world of the housewife wasn't easy. Suitcases lining one entire wall remained to be unpacked and there were the chauffeuring chores that are part and parcel of the existence of every mother of four children. But the youngsters were delighted to have "Mommy" back again and Kathy was genuinely delighted to be there.

Her future plans as Mrs. Universal of 1978 are still indefinite. Kathy says she is not committed to anything. "What I do is what I want to do," she says.

However, it is likely, she explained, that she will make some appearances for benefits and at other Universal pageants next summer. All her expenses will be paid by the Universal Pageant System and for pageant work she will receive a stipend.

Kathy, who said she had traveled very little, singled out meeting and getting to know people from many different backgrounds as the most enjoyable part of her experience in Miami.

Youths play softball for Easter Seal Society

Youths who hang out in parking lots have been receiving a notoriously bad press these days. It's time somebody reported the good things they do.

A group of these youths who call themselves the "DD Gang" after their favorite gathering spot, a local donut shop, has raised $305 for the Easter Seal Society.

They earned the money by doing one of the things they like to do best, that is by playing softball.

The DD Gang has played together on Saturdays and Sundays, on a strictly informal basis, for some time now. But the Gang lacked focus, a cause.

Then one of their number, Bill Longo, came up with an idea to really put some meaning in their games. Why not enter the Easter Seal Softball Marathon, he and another youth suggested.

The idea clicked, and the wheels were set in motion. Members of the group chipped in and bought themselves snazzy blue and white shirts imprinted with the double D, (you can't play an official game without an official shirt, after all) and went around town soliciting sponsors for the two-hour game.

Several Wilmington businesses pledged varying amounts per inning.

The day of the big game was last Saturday, at Cleveland Circle Field in Brighton.

Wilmington's boys were somewhat trounced, 21-11 by a "fast pitch" team called the Burlington Orioles, but they managed to squeeze in 10 innings and tallied up $305 for Easter Seal Society.

Taking the loss in stride and chalking it up to experience, they plan to stage another fund-raising game for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund around Labor Day in Tewksbury.

Members of the Wilmington team include: Steve Babine, Roger Lesnick, Teddy Barden, Bob Reid, Jimmy Williams, Chuck DePasquale, Mark DePasquale, Paul Mackey, Everett McBride, Bill Longo, Tony DeAngelis, Mike Griffin, Craig Webster, Charlie Babiano and one youth known only as Al from Woburn.

The Easter Seal Softball Marathon is sponsored by the Easter Seal Society, Charlestown Savings Bank, Midas Mufflers and W.B.Z.

Betterment Association ponders Route 129 proposal

Board members of the South Wilmington Betterment Association aren't entirely pleased, it has been learned, with the latest plan put forth by the Mass. Department of Public Works (DPW) for the reconstruction and relocation of West Street and Route 129.

The new proposal which calls for diverting West Street through industrial land adjacent to Route 93 and through an area located between the present West Street and Woodland Drive, was discussed at a Monday meeting of the directors of the Betterment Association.

Present at the meeting were State Representative James Miceli; Mike Barrett, a candidate for state representative in a district that under house re-districting guidelines will include South Wilmington; and several area residents whose property will be affected by the new road.

According to Gerald Tully, president of the Betterment Association, the maps used to study the area were old ones, perhaps dating as far back as 1964. Consequently, two more homes not shown on the maps as well as some residential property belonging to Mr. and Mrs. John Muise would have to be taken. The homes belong to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hesse and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peters all of West Street.

According to the DPW, the proposal would also require the removal of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Ryan of West Street, the office of Civil Engineer Ken Miller, and an office building belonging to Al Fiorenza.

Tully said that his organization has drafted a letter to the DPW asking them to submit to them a scale drawing of the proposal, to stake out the right-of-way for the proposed Route 129 and West Street so it can be readily discerned, and to respond to "four or five questions" which have disturbed the South Wilmington residents.

Among these are: what will happen on the other side of West Street, across Route 129? What steps will be taken to insure that residents of Suncrest Avenue will be able to make a left turn onto the new road? How will people walk across Route 129 which will be a divided highway from West Street to Woodland Drive? Will the state install an aerial pedway? or a push-button traffic light which could have the effect of slowing down traffic flow onto Route 129?

"We in the South Wilmington area are getting a little tired of fighting the battle of West Street every other year," said Tully. "We would like to settle it to the satisfaction of both parties."

According to Tully, there are other pressing problems facing the residents of Precinct 3. The association plans to protest an application by Avco Corporation to obtain a permit to store 300,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas and it is also concerned about the possibility of a road opening up between the Wilmington and North Woburn Industrial Parks.

"We recognize that there is a traffic problem," he said, "but we don't want to open up our end of town to accommodate traffic from Woburn and facilitate traffic from Billerica and Chelmsford."

No formal position on the Route 129 proposal would be taken, however, said Tully until after the association's full membership meeting in September.

NICK RIZZO SEND HIM TO CONGRESS. FOR ALL OF US!

Nick Rizzo's life has been spent helping people. As an educator, a scientist, a criminologist and a physician. Now he'd like the opportunity to represent all of us in the 5th District more directly. As our Congressman.

More than 45 years ago, Nick Rizzo helped his immigrant parents by working as a coal miner in pit #4 in Pennsylvania. Most recently he served as Director of the Lawrence Court Clinic. In between, he's seen the bright side and a lot of the dark. He's seen that progress in working with problems like health, crime, unemployment and drugs comes from concern, knowledge and dedication. Not from lifetime politicians who seek one stepping stone office after another.

Like most of us, Nick Rizzo feels that bigger government and unwise spending aren't the solutions to the crushing problems of taxes and inflation. He thinks all of us want more decision-making returned to the individual, and that's what he's going to fight for.

Nick Rizzo feels this election is especially important. He's made proposals (call or stop by for a brochure) and he feels all of us should know where every candidate stands. So he's challenging all candidates for Congress to a series of debates or public forums.

before both primaries, anywhere and anytime.

Nick Rizzo is the only "non-pol" seeking to represent us. As a newcomer, his lack of exposure makes him a distinct underdog. But as a person who's tried to help many of us—and as a candidate whose only interest group is all the people—we urge his support. We feel—by background, by knowledge, by concern and capabilities—Nick Rizzo should go to Congress. For all of us.
